FREE MONETARY SEMINAR

Are You Confused By:

- Sequestrations?
- Fiscal Cliffs?
- Raising debt limits?
- Trillion-dollar coins?
- Too big to jail Wall Street operators?
- Too big to fail banks?
- Closing down our Government?

You should be confused!

These notions are all a result of the horrible mess most economists have made of the world's money systems.

These dilemmas result from an unjust money system based on using debt instead of money. This has concentrated the world's wealth into the top one-tenth of 1%.

But far better thinking has been available for centuries, including from Aristotle, Plato, Bishop Berkeley, Ben Franklin, Peter Cooper, Henry George, Frederick Soddy, Henry Simons and Irving Fisher, and the AMI, to name just a few.

The American Monetary Institute, founded in 1996 for the independent study of monetary history, theory, and reform, proudly brings together expert and trustworthy speakers to help you make sense of what is going on.

An unjust money system using debt instead of money concentrates the nation's wealth into the top one-tenth of 1%, while normal working people (including professionals) suffer; losing homes, savings, families, even lives. We must do better!

It all results from the way economists have failed to understand the nature of money.

Now you can learn more about money in 2 hours than most economists learn in a lifetime!

Learn how monetary reform easily fixes the Detroit "bankruptcy" – yes, easily.

Robert Poteat, leading expert on America's money system and Senior Advisor to the American Monetary Institute, and Stephen Zarlenga, Director of the Institute, will show:

- How our debt-based money system promotes war, and warfare then promotes more debt.
- How HR 2990, introduced into the last Congress by Rep. Dennis Kucinich solves these critical monetary problems.

When: Monday, August 12th 6:00 – 8:00 pm
